Q : Page 7 of the Campaign Games Rules : UN Assault Scenario Victory for CGII

The wording seems to indicate that once the UN controls any of the listed buildings they win the scenario. Should it be similar to KPA victory (more roadblocks controlled then at start or control of one of the listed buildings that was uncontrolled at start) ?

A : It is the dreaded nature of "and/or" in ASL. It is Control more roadblocks than they started the date with AND any of the following buildings....

Q : Page 15 of the Campaign Games Rules : 11.609 Extinguishing Blazes Looks like burning woods has been missed. My assumption is that woods should be included in 11.6092 Brush, Orchard, Wooden Rubble and turned into shellholes

A : Correct, add Woods before Brush in the title.

"In scenario S6, the USMC set up should read " LL43-..." vs "LL44-...".

Q : Page 20 of the Campaign Games Rules : 11.6161 Historical DRM Chart This section states "... and inversely to adjust the maximum number of Infantry Companies a side may purchase per CG Day (11.6195)." There is no reference in 11.6195 to maximum number of Infantry Companies there was in RB rules. Was the intention that No limits Example both sides are limited only by the CG Max and CPP points RB style limits - 2 companies + Reverse of Historical DRM Example Marines can purchase 2 companies on 25PM and the KPA can purchase 4 companies on the 25N Some other option 2 companies max or 1 company per zone

A : See if I am reading you correctly here, we might be crossed wired for a second. The max is listed on the RG card, FfS 11.6195 notes this as where to look. The intention is as you phrased it "limited only by CG Max and CPP points."

In the Smith's Ridge Rulebook, on page 8, the broken KPA 4-4-7 should have a broken side ML of 7.

In the Smith Ridge Rulebook 13.3 TACP, 13th line, should read "<=" not ">=".

In the Seoul Rulebook at 16.3 the 13th line should read "<=" not " ?".

Scenario S2 :

SSR 5 add as the last sentence : "The +1 MP of E1.52 is NA on the convoy's turn of entry."
