Vibora is a powerful Elder Vampire, more than 500 years old. She is always seen with a small pack of decrepit minions and her familiar, a massive python, Culebra. Her origins are lost in time, but her reptilian nature is clear. She controls all snakes in her vicinity and has a life-sustaining bond with Culebra: the python is as old as she is. Many in the Order say that Culebra is the source of her power, not vice versa.

Early stories describe Vibora as a beautiful, beguiling woman but this could simply be a myth. Now, she is a hideous scaled creature. Hunters that have survived an encounter with Vibora report it is the snake's writhing dance that captivates them, not Vibora's charms.

The Jararaca are not of the true Vampire bloodline and don't live as their own clan. They are simply Vibora's most recent victims, unfortunate humans that persist in the undead state for a short while after they have turned. They are weak and tainted, not surviving long at best, and expiring quickly if separated from Vibora and the pack: what little life force Vibora passes on to them seems to be sustained only when they are together.

ADDING VIBORA AND THE JARARACA TO YOUR HUNTS

The Jararaca are designed to be easily integrated into any Hunt:

When building the deck of Encounter Cards, include the Jararaca Encounter Cards of the appropriate level specified in the Hunt setup. Similarly, include the new Activation Cards.

It is completely up to you how you do this. For example:

- Shuffle the Jararaca L1 Encounter Cards with core L1 cards and draw the required number of cards at random. This will give you a small number of Jararaca Vampires in the Den.
- Draw from the Jararaca cards first, and use the Core Game cards only to make up the required numbers. This will make the Jararaca more common in the Den.

It does not matter how you build the deck, so long as you include the specified number of cards at each level.

Similarly, Vibora can be added to any Hunt that includes an Elder Vampire. Treat Vibora like any other Elder, for example by adding the Vibora Vampire ID Card to the other Elder ID Cards for random spawns, or placing the miniature in the Den during setup in place of another Elder.

Although Vibora and the Jararaca minions will often be used together, you can use them independently, for example using Vibora alone.
